

I wanted to voice my opinion against further media ownership deregulation. Based on what's taken place in radio since the 1996 telecommunications act, I strongly feel that allowing further consolidation is detrimental to the public good. Large corporations like Clear Channel do not promote diversity (music, news, opinions, etc.) nor do they work to voice local concerns and interests. The proposed changes to broadcast ownership regulations only serve Wall Street and do not benefit the greater good.

Thank you.
